

TRAINING IN LAW ENFORCEMENT

The Massachusetts Army National Guard is a great place to get your career started. Are you interested in law enforcement? Do you have what it takes to stay calm in the heat of a crisis and help restore and maintain order? Well, we may have the job for you...You can become part of an elite branch of the Massachusetts Army National Guard, the Military Police Corps.

All of the jobs in the Military Police Corps are open to men and women. You can choose the job you want before you join. If you qualify for it and there's an opening, you get it. That's a National Guard guarantee.

The National Guard also has jobs in the communications, maintenance, food service and administrative support fields.

SERVING WITH A "CAN-DO" ATTITUDE

The Military Police Corps continues the traditions of pride, esprit de corps, and a "Can-Do" attitude. If you are interested in joining the Corps you may qualify to join right now, even if you are still in high school or college. During high school you may schedule your Basic Training and Advanced Individual Training during your summer vacation.

SERVE YOUR COMMUNITY

During hurricanes, storms and other State emergencies, soldiers from the Military Police Corps have answered the call to help their communities and their state.

SERVE YOUR COUNTRY

Soldiers of the Military Police Corps proudly served during Operation Desert Storm and conducted combat support operations in Arabia, Iraq and Kuwait.
